Bayard Taylor is dead.

Low Wallace has been confirmed by the Senate Governor of New Mexico.

We are indebted to the Hon. H. S. Stevens for late Congressional Records.

The A. T. & S. F. R. R. Co. have leased the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad for thirty years.

L. Bradford Prince, of New York, was nominated on the 18th inst., by the President, Chief Justice of New Mexico.

The San Francisco Stock Report announces the fact that a 100-stamp mill is being built in Chicago for Arizona.

A military survey is ordered with a view of finding a better road across the Mogollen range, between Camp Apache and Camp Verde.

A Columbia (S. C.) dispatch says Wade Hampton's condition has so decidedly improved that he expressed the opinion that he had passed the crisis.

It is more than probable that among the first bills our Territorial Legislature will be called on to consider is the removal of the capitol to Phoenix.

A quartz mill and hoisting works, weighing 180,000 pounds, for the Tiger mine arrived by rail at Yuma, and by this time is probably loaded on wagons for the mine.

Hon. Galusha Grow, of Pennsylvania, does not agree that Grant is the Republicans' best candidate for President in 1880. He says, and truly, too, the party wants statesmanship at its head.

Acting Territorial Secretary Anderson canvassed the vote for delegate to Congress on the 16th, with the following result: Campbell, 1,452; Davis, 1,097; Stevens, 1,090; Woolsey, 882. Campbell got the certificate.

The Yuma Sentinel, of the 21st, says: "We find that four of our stores receive Mexican dollars at 87 1-2c; three of our heaviest merchants take them at par. The S. P. R. R. Co. only allows 85c, and will soon refuse them altogether."

Representative Seals and Senator Saunders, active workers in Congress for the transfer of the Indians to army management, have chopped, as they say, because they were in error in believing that it would be for the best—for both Indians and the government.

The Indian appropriation bill provides $320,000 for collecting and subsisting Apaches and other Indians of Arizona and New Mexico. If the $320,000 is intended to supply the 40,000 Indians in the two Territories it would only furnish 2 16-100c per day per Indian; a sum far too little for the purpose intended.

The S. P. R. R. Co. will establish a freight and passenger depot ten miles this side of Gila City, which it is reported will be named Oroville. Stages will run to this point. Parties have been sent to Dos Palmas for the purpose of removing the depot buildings there to Oroville. The accumulated piles of ties and iron at Yuma are rapidly diminishing in size and number, and every day car loads of building material are being sent to the front.

The Tucson Citizen has taken Ben. C. Truman, mail agent, to task, for publishing in the San Francisco Bulletin that in Tucson "the year round chills and fever hold absolute sway, and that probably more quinine is consumed there, for the number of inhabitants, than in any other place on the coast." Ben has been drawing the long bow, and probably believes there is no harm in white lies. If Ben must write for newspapers and deal in statistics, let him tell the Bulletin's readers how much whisky is consumed by mail agents in a solar year, (he doubtless knows the exact quantity of rot-gut one of them requires to keep his highly-heated whistle wet,) then the citizens of Tucson may perhaps be disposed to let him down easy.

The grade of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad over the Raton mountain is 316 feet to the mile, and in order to climb it with a train of seven loaded cars the company is having a fifty-five ton locomotive built. The Trinidad News gives an interesting account of the ceremony of spiking Colorado to New Mexico. To reach this point the company in the last nine months have built ninety-six miles of road, furnished it with rolling stock, and propose to reach Las Vegas, N. M., one hundred and thirty-seven miles nearer the Rio Grande, by the 1st of May, and before Las Vegas is reached the road will be under contract to the Rio Grande, alias Rio Bravo, alias Rio Del Norte, thence to and into Arizona to meet the Southern Pacific, upon some upland lawn or sombre canon, which is also being pushed east by twelve hundred Chinamen, bossed by white men of tireless energy, and when they meet, which will be within two years, another trans-continental line will have been completed, and for the second time realizing Benton's idea of "A Western Route to India."

The Albuquerque (N. M.) Review is "not feeling well, entirely." A decision of Judge Parks affirming "the voice of the people" in establishing the county seat of Bernalillo county at the town of Bernalillo is the cause of the recent eruptive appearance of its columns. Judge Parks has the reputation of being a square man, a good lawyer, a wise judge, a second Daniel, who can look justice square in the eye without a blush; but, notwithstanding such purity of character, there are persons in Albuquerque who do not hesitate to say he turned a willing ear to Leandro Perez, the high-cockalorum of Bernalillo. The Las Vegas Gazette comes to the front and gives tongue in behalf of the judge, and says it is not right to wink a judicial reputation down because the judge gagged at a technical objection, raised by citizens of Albuquerque, and refused to swallow it. We do not think it quite right in the Albuquerque Review to encompass the judge with gall before knowing beyond the possibility of a doubt, that he has an itching palm and that it had been greased.

The Tucson Citizen, referring to our presence at the celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Hise's cotton wedding, says "the editor of the Belt intimates that after considerable patience and labor he once more in his struggling life got something to eat. We did not intimate or leave it to be inferred that we were in debt to our stomach, and knowing that Clum was a church member we were not a little surprised to see such a statement in print. Fearing ourself deceived, we felt our ribs and had others to do the same, and to make sure that we were not like Cassius, "lean and hungry looking," we had recourse to a tape line and found that we measured just sixty-two inches round the waist, which was confirmation strong as steel, writ that Clum was mistaken in asserting that we had been on short allowance; and to convince him, when we meet we will tread on his toes, in order that he may be enabled to guess at our weight, and cause him to mentally ask himself the question, why is it that Hackney swells so nobly out and fills so generous a space in life? But, notwithstanding the conceded fructifying influence of food, Clum may, from pure cussedness, attribute our rotundity to snake-bite.

The origin of Odd Fellowship is variously ascribed. In the later part of the last century Lodges existed in London calling themselves "Ancient and Honorable Loyal Odd Fellows." The institution spread to other cities, and in 1813 a convention was held at Manchester, when several Lodges seceded from the union, and formed "The Independent Order of Odd Fellows." Thomas Wilkey, an Englishman, instituted the first Lodge in the United States at Baltimore, April 26, 1819, which is the original starting point of the order in this country. After the 1st of January, sisters and daughters of Odd Fellows will be eligible to receive the Degree of Rebekah. Heretofore it has only been conferred upon wives and widows of members.

A Dutch clergyman was in the habit of giving out two lines of a hymn at a time for the choir to sing. One dark, rainy day he could not see the words, and said, "Mine eyes ish dim, I cannot see; I left mine specs at home." The choir, supposing this to be the hymn, struck up the tune of common meter. The old fellow bawled out, "Mine Gott! mine Gott! dat is no hymn. I only said mine eyes vash dim." The choir sang these two lines, the old fellow saying, "I think de debil's in you all. Dat vash no hymn at all."

"Pa," asked a boy the other day, "what is meant by paradise?" "Paradise, my son," replied the father gloomily, "is the latter part of next summer, when your mother goes on a visit to your grandmother."

The exact number of counties in Texas is a matter of dispute. One authority says 226. One of them is as large as the State of Massachusetts.
